Stones in the Kidneys

and Bladder Expelled—Long Suffering of one of Troy's Best People—A Lucky Man

It is by no means a strange thing that Dr Kennedy should have received the following letter By reading it you will see in one minute why James Andrews was thankful

TROY N Y, April 8th, 1880

Dr D Kennedy, Rondout, N Y

DEAR SIR —Until within a recent date I had for several years suffered greatly from gravel called by the doctors the Brick dust Sediment For about a year past this sediment has not passed off in the usual quantity But has accumulated, causing me untold pain Having heard of 'Kennedy's Favorite Remedy' I tried it in my case and after using about one and one-half bottles, I voided a stone from the Bladder of an oval shape 7/16 inch long, and rough on its surface I send you the largest piece that you may see what it is ... Since then I have felt no pain I now consider myself cured, and cannot express my thankfulness and gratitude for so signal a deliverance from a terrible disease You have my consent to use this letter should you wish to do so for the benefit of other sufferers

Yours truly

JAMES ANDREWS

THE SPRAGUE ESTATE

A DECISION ON THE DISPOSITION OF THE IMMENSE PROPERTY

A Providence despatch to the Boston Herald, under date of March 9, says The Supreme Court, sitting in equity, rendered a decision, to day, in the matter of the sale of the Sprague estate Two offers for the estate were made, one by a syndicate headed by Benedict Lapham, a wealthy manufacturer, and supposed to include the Spragues and Gen Butler, and the other by Wilbour, Jackson & Co, a well known banking firm of Providence The Lapham syndicate offered for the estate the sum of $2 880 000, equivalent to 33 cents on $1 of the liabilities of the Spragues, providing a clear, full and perfect title was given to the property, the Spragues agreeing to sign the deed if the sale was made to Mr Lapham and associates The offer of Wilbour, Jackson & Co was the same amount but it was proposed in this case that the property should be put up at public auction and then they would bid the sum named as an 'upset' price, and, if any wanted to bid more they could They would be content if the estate was struck off to them, to accept it under a quitclaim deed from Trustee Chaffee A majority of the Court to day decided in favor of the latter plan on the ground that it was the most feasible being without qualification or reservation Justice Stiness said that it was the duty as well as the desire of the Court to see that the property was disposed of to the best advantage of the creditors for whom it is held To this end it must be sold as speedily as possible, for it was rapidly wasting in idleness All of the property located in this State can be sold now, and no liens cloud the title, unless upon a small portion of the bank stock and no obstructions to a sale remain To put off judicial sales until all questions have been litigated and adjudicated would be oppressive and ruinous to the creditors and it would be unjust to delay the settlement of the estate until the end of those suits, which may not be reached for months and even years, as the creditors are entitled to the present value of the estate The offer made by Mr Lapham could not be advanced while the other offer is no less than that sum $2 880 000, and the estate may be possibly made to realize more if more is bid at the auction The Court thought the estate should be sold under such circumstances as should allow full and free competition Justice Tillinghast said that the matter was purely a business transaction, and involved no question of law. The offer by Wilbour, Jackson & Co was better than the offer by Benedict Lapham, because it was an offer which was made in the form of a first bid at a competitive sale of the estate in bulk—an 'upset' price as it is termed at auction sales thereby opening the door for the further bids or offers, which was a very important consideration, and also because the offer is to give a certain sum anyway for such title to the property as the trustee can give, the purchaser taking all risks as to the validity of the title, thereby absolutely and fully relieving the creditors from all further litigation and insuring them this sum at all events The court advised the trustee to name an early day and convenient place to receive offers by open competition for all his right, title and interest in the estate, and that he then and there execute a contract of sale with the party or parties whose offer shall be the highest, with the terms of the sale such as to secure to the trustee the performance of the contract and the terms of the contract such as to secure the creditors as speedy payments as possible, and, in case of deferred payments ample security The court suggested that none of the personal property should pass out of the hands of the trustee until its full value was paid, that the trust notes should not be accepted as cash, that the deed of the property should be delivered to the clerk of the court to be deposited in the registry of the court, and that failure on the part of the purchaser to pay any required payment should forfeit the contract and all payments under it. The court said the trustee might prepare terms of sale, etc, embodying these suggestions and submit them to the court for approval Justice Potter delivered an opinion dissenting from that of a majority of the court He held that the best interest of the creditors required the acceptance of the Lapham offer, with some alterations to remove ambiguities in the proposal and to render the payment more secure, and that the creditors would get their money sooner in this way. After the decision had been given, Gen Butler informed a reporter, after the adjournment of the court, that the case was by no means settled. He saw many obstacles to an auction sale of the estate, and hinted that litigation would go on It is understood he will shortly make another and unexpected move in the matter which will make the Sprague affairs even more complicated than they have ever been. The Spragues are now determined not to be entirely thrust out of the estate Gen Butler is reported as saying that he will stand by them until victory comes in one way or another. He believes they ought to have some portion of the estate and be allowed to enter business again, and he is determined they shall not lose every dollar of the vast property and become paupers.

THE TERRIBLE CHILD

[From the Boston Transcript.]

It was in the cars. The ladies were sitting together, busily engaged in conversation. On the seat facing them sat a little five years old boy. He had been looking out of the window, apparently absorbed in the moving panorama of the outside world. Suddenly he turned from the window, he began searching about the car, exclaiming in a high piped voice:

"Mamma, what makes that man look so funny?"

'Sh!" cautioned the mother, but the boy was not to be hushed.

"I don't see the man with the bald head and funny red nose."

The "sh" was repeated. By this time the car was in a titter, save and excepting one elderly gentleman with a very bald head and a red nose. His eyes were riveted upon his paper with a fixedness that was quite frightful. Again the boy:

'Oh! now I see him! Ho! What a bright nose! What makes it so red, mamma?"

"Georgie!" shouted his mother in a stage whisper. But Georgie was not to be stopped.

"Mamma," he continued, "What made you say he had a light-house on his face? I don't any light house."

Again, 'Georgie,' and this time with a light shake

Once more the piping voice, the bald headed passenger glaring at his paper more fiercely than ever, and growing redder every moment

"Mamma," I don't think his head looks like a State House dome It's shiny like it, but it isn't so yaller "

While the titter went round again, Georgie's mother whispered to the boy, and gave her hopeful a box on the ear, which seemed to partly divert his attention from the bald headed passenger, but not entirely He cried once through his tears.

You said his nose was as red as a beet, mamma I didn't say nothing "

Strange to say, the bald-headed passenger didn't take part in the suppressed laughter that followed, but put on his hat and hid his nose in the paper, over which he glared at the boy as if he wanted to eat him And yet, where was the boy to blame?

Augusta was startled at 1 30 o'clock Thursday morning by a large fire. The flames were found to proceed from the large wooden building on Willow street erected some 10 years ago by Col Thomas Lambard for the manufacture of freight cars, and now used by Webber & Webber as a machine shop and foundry. The fire was very rapid in its progress, and in a short time the billows of flame completely submerged the foundry and machine shop The total loss will be in the vicinity of $18 000 Davis, Farr & Co had a line of $11 000 in various companies on all the shops and property of the concern The buildings were full of valuable machinery, patterns, etc. Col Lambard expended over $40 000 in establishing the industry, and it would probably take more than half that sum to rebuild and start up again. The fire will be a severe blow to the Webbers. They are both young and energetic men, and purchased the property in September last They were running the foundry on castings for the Maine Central road, and contemplated engaging in the sash and blind manufacture this spring.

Piscataquis.

The Piscataquis Observer says "Our old and esteemed fellow-townsman, Dr. Elliott, died very suddenly at Central Hall, on Tuesday evening, at about 7 30 o'clock. It seems that he had been in the hall scarcely five minutes, when he complained of feeling unwell; soon after his head was seen to droop and immediately he became unconscious and expired before he could be removed to the banquet room below. His death was caused by apoplexy, having had two attacks previously. The event cast a feeling of sadness over the large audience present, and our community, as the news of his death became known. Deceased was born in Concord, N H., April 26, 1808, and consequently lacked but a few weeks of 74 years of age. He moved into this town in 1841. In 1850 he was elected Judge of Probate, which office he held four years. He was also Town Clerk 1854 to 1866, and served as a Selectman one or more years.'

Republican Caucuses.

The Republican voters of the City of Bangor, are hereby invited to meet at the polling places in the various Wards on SATURDAY EVENING, March 11th at 7.30 o'clock, to nominate candidates for Aldermen, Councilmen and Ward Officers to be voted for at the Municipal election March 13th, 1882.

By order of the Republican City Committee
G A DAVENPORT Chairman
March 1 1882.

THE POOR MAN'S FRIEND AGAIN

The non partisan " "reform and economy, tax payers and citizens'" movement for the choice of a candidate for Mayor has culminated in the nomination of that ' Poor Man's Friend' —CHARLES P BROWN

Of course John B Foster, J F Snow & Robinson, Dr Jordan and Mr. Brown himself cannot look each other in the face without snorting with laughter at the roaring farce of putting forward such a poverty-stricken, tax ridden, horny handed friend of the people as the man that the times are crying for, to remedy the inequalities of the public burdens

Naturally Mr Brown regards his selection as having special reference to the matter of TAXES and he makes special reference to TAXES in his speech That is as it should be There is a general feeling in the community that CHARLES P BROWN has devoted a great deal of time and thought to the question of how to reduce the TAXES"—OF CHARLES P BROWN'

Mr Brown commiserates the property-holders of the city upon the burden of TAXATION, but it does not seem to occur to him that the principle cause of the burden upon those who pay is laid upon their shoulders by the shirking of those who do not

By common repute and in the estimation of our shrewdest business men Mr. Brown is regarded as one of the wealthiest of the citizens of Bangor and yet his name does not appear in the published list of more than sixty citizens who last year paid $100 and upwards In 1880 his entire contribution to the TAXES of which he so loudly complains amounted to $112 13

Yet Mr Brown has posed as a "down trodden TAX-PAYER" and has gone about in the rural sections of the city pretending to be "the poor man's friend,' and seeking to incite property holders against the Republican party on account of the TAXES

It is worth while for all the owners of farms and other real property that cannot escape full TAXATION to consider a remark made yesterday by one of the most sagacious business men of Bangor—that if the great amount of untaxed wealth that now evades TAXATION could be made to contribute its legitimate share the TAXES UPON REAL ESTATE IN THIS COMMUNITY WOULD BE REDUCED ONE HALF.

In another aspect the' Reform Citizens'" caucus furnishes an interesting picture The chairmanship of JOHN B FOSTER and the nomination of CHARLES P BROWN constituted a sort of local apotheosis of the State Steal It is generally understood that while Foster was the "brains" of the Garcelon Gang of State Stealers, Brown furnished the "brains upon which Foster ran the conspiracy. It is not generally thought that Brown is any wickeder than Foster, but he knows more, and it is among the traditions of the Count-Out period that Brown hunted out the pretexts for evading or nullifying the laws in regard to the election returns, and that he and Foster concocted a large part of the schemes in Brown's office

In view of that recent chapter of history, it would seem to require considerable assurance for Mr Charles P Brown to speak of even the 'possibility ' of his election as Mayor of Bangor

SENATOR FRYE'S SHIPPING BILL

[From the Portland Press]

Senator Frye's shipping bill for the relief of the coasting trade, and the pungent remarks he made in support of it, Tuesday are exciting the comment which the importance of the topic commands and his able treatment of it provokes The coaster he uses for purposes of illustration, the Louisa A Boardman, is a schooner not unfamiliar to Maine and Dominion waters, and the story of the burdens put upon her in the way of enrollment, bond, license, admeasurement clearance, entry, etc is the story of all the vessels that sail along our coast Instances are not infrequent where coasters pay annually in charges of this nature one tenth of their value. The burdens put upon craft engaged in transatlantic trade are quite as heavy.

Mr Frye has made a study of this question perceives the trouble that has led to the decline of our shipping and suggests the proper remedy. The trouble is that we tax our ships more than they can bear The charges have been increased year by year, while the profits of shipping have declined The burden has at last become too heavy to bear The taxes were for the most part imposed while the carrying trade was exceedingly profitable, and the owners of bottoms, who were making money fast, did not appreciably feel the tribute levied on them. But the trade is now divided The railroads that skirt the coast and furrow the interior have taken much of the trade once held by the skipper to themselves. Capital has sought the new lines of traffic and withdrawn itself from shipbuilding. So that the taxes that were once scarcely regarded are now felt to be intolerably heavy

The remedy is the reduction of these taxes The matter is one of pressing importance and Congress should at once in justice to our shipping interests relieve them from the enormous burden of taxation under which they are now staggering.

The Greenbackers make a small showing in the Maine municipal elections. In Portland the vote of their candidate is put among the scattering, in Lewiston it was only 60 in a total of over 2300. In Solon Chase's own town, where he has had a large following, the candidate on the straight Greenback ticket polled only 18 votes.—Boston Journal.

Senator Beck seems to have the curious notion that he can demolish the Anti-Bourbon movement in Kentucky by denying its existence. He says the Anti-Bourbons cannot muster 4,000 votes, and that their movement is "not even seriously talked of in Kentucky." If Mr. Beck will procure files of the newspapers of Kentucky for the past month, he will have no difficulty in discovering that he is betraying a woeful ignorance of the politics of his own State.

BOURBON FRAUD IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

If there is anything like a fair election in South Carolina again for many years it will be an accident, unless the plans of the Bourbons to prevent honest voting miscarry. Governor Hagood, under the new registry law, appoints the registration officers for the entire State. Of course he sees to it that they are all trustworthy Bourbons Being an unmitigated Bourbon himself, he cannot be expected to do anything else. The first registration will be made in May and June next, and the officers who are to supervise it have been appointed by the Governor The leading bulldozers' organ of the State commends the selection as having been carefully made We have not a doubt of it The law directs that the supervisor shall remain no less than one day nor more than three days in each precinct for the purpose of allowing voters to register, that after he has completed the registration in the several precincts he shall open the books at the county seat, where errors may be corrected, and qualified voters, who have not previously registered, may do so.

After this has been done the supervisor is empowered to revise the list and inscribe the names of voters shown "to his satisfaction' to be qualified and not already registered. It is easy to see what an opportunity for wholesale fraud is here afforded If the list be found, for example, to contain more Republican than Democratic names, does anybody suppose the Bourbon supervisor would hesitate to add enough Bourbon names to make the list balance more in accordance with the sacred right of perpetual Bourbon domination? Perhaps the chivalry of South Carolina will resent this intimation as slanderous and unjust, but we beg to be permitted to say that a party which will stuff ballot-boxes will also stuff a registration list The only check to fraudulent registration is the "discretion' of a supervisor who in all probability is an ex tissue ballot operator.

But this is not the only opportunity for fraud which the law affords. The supervisor has the power to decide whether the person who applies to register is entitled to be registered or not His decision is subject to revision by a board consisting of the assistant supervisors and himself From their decision there is a final appeal to the Circuit Court. Practically, therefore one man decides who shall register With a large ignorant population like that of the South, it is not difficult to see how this man can use his power so as to keep his party in perpetual majority on the registration list An ignorant negro, who does not understand the various stages of appeal, would never get his case so far as the Circuit Court, and there would be no chance of fair decision short of that

The supervisor, therefore has virtually absolute power both in admitting names to the list and in revising them after they have been admitted He is responsible to nobody save the Governor who appoints him, and he knows he will be sustained by the Governor so long as he looks out for the interests of his party. The law is simply infamous, It is designed to prevent a fair election, not to promote it. It is designed to make unnecessary further use of the tissue ballot, intimidation and red-shirt tactics generally. It is not surprising that the Republican leaders in the State decided when they read the provisions of the law, to advise their followers to withdraw entirely from participation in State politics. The Bourbons, like all other thieves, are sure to fall to fighting among themselves before long, and then the Republicans may have a chance to secure honest treatment

THE STALLION PIEDMONT SOLD.

A Chicago despatch of March 8th says The celebrated trotting stallion Piedmont foaled in 1871 by Almont out of Mag Ferguson by Mambrino Chief, was sold yesterday by J S Morgan, of Chicago, to ex Gov Leland Stanford, of California, for $30 000 In 1880 Piedmont trotted ten races and won nine. His best record was 2 21¼ In 1881 he trotted seven races and won five, with a best record of 2 17¼ Peter V Johnson, under whose driving Piedmont has achieved his brilliant turf career, said to-day of the horse "I think that Piedmont can beat any stallion record now in existence, and, more than that, I think he can beat any stallion But one stallion in the world—Santa Claus—has ever defeated him in a race and Piedmont beat him one at Chicago which makes honors easy on that score I am not going to make any excuses for being beaten at Boston, but I should like to try it over "

The purchase of Piedmont by Gov Stanford was made in a very quiet manner He arrived in Chicago Tuesday morning and was met at the train by Mr Morgan They proceeded to the West Side, where the California millionaire was given a ride behind Piedmont at the end of which he asked Mr Morgan's price for the horse and concluded the bargain at once Piedmont will be shipped to California before long and make a short season in the stud, after which it is possible that Gov Stanford will return him to the turf. In addition to Piedmont, Gov Stanford purchased from Mr Morgan the six year old mare Happy Dream

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION. The series of articles on the Christian Religion, by Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, Judge Jeremiah S. Black and Prof. George P. Fisher, which appeared recently in the North American Review, is now published in pamphlet form in response to a very generally expressed demand. Readers of the Review will be pleased to see these remarkable papers collected into one handy volume, and the general public who have learned of the articles through the comments of press and pulpit will be gratified to learn that a reprint has been issued. The price of the volume is fifty cents, and it is for sale at all news stands and book stores.

Governor Hawkins, of Tennessee, sums up the political situation in that State in this compact way "All the indications point very clearly to the disintegration of the Democratic party of Tennessee. The feeling between the two factions of that party, growing out of the State debt question, is very bitter. They are more hostile to each other than either of them is to the Republican party. I think that the result will be that the Republican party will be the majority party in Tennessee. There may be three parties in the field at the next election, but there will be one of them that will not have much voting strength. The strong parties will be the Republican party, which will advocate the payment of the debt of the State, and the low-tax faction of the Democratic party, which will advocate the repudiation of a portion, or the whole of the debt. The State-Credit Democrats will be divided between the Republican party and the Low-Tax Democratic party. I do not see any opening for, or prospect of, an independent party."

A couple of large alligators kept on exhibition at Jacksonville, Fla., were recently stirred up with a stick by a visitor, and, curiously enough, enraged at being disturbed, fell to fighting each other with great fury. The battle lasted from three in the afternoon till eleven at night, and the next day one of them died from his injuries.

The Chief of the Bureau of Statistics reports that the total value of the exports of petroleum and petroleum products from the United States during the month of January, 1882, was $2 759 037, and during January, 1881, $2,060,227.

An official announcement has been made to the effect that the Grand Duke Vladimir has subscribed $75 000, and the Grand Dukes Alexis, Sergius and Paul $37 000 each toward the fund for constructing a cathedral over the grave of the late Czar Alexander II The money is said to come however from the savings made by the economical administration of the army.

It is reported that Sergeant John Mason, who was recently tried by court martial for shooting at Guiteau, is likely to be brought a second time before a court martial, upon the charge of insulting Surgeons Gibson and Reed, his superior officers, who, in the course of his late trial, were sent to his cell for the purpose of examining the wound received by him in the war

A dauntless citizen of Georgia is said to be on the point of publishing a descriptive catalogue of all the unmarried women in the State who now own or expect to inherit property valued at $5 000 or more, with accurate details as to age, appearance and personal characteristics The mercenary aspect of this enterprise is more than offset by the intrepid valor which can contemplate without quailing the inevitable errors which will find their way into such a volume.

The latest novelty in invention is a project for sending grain from the West to the seacoast by means of pipe lines, an imitation of the oil pipe service Mr A K Williams of Minneapolis, Minn., is having machinery constructed by which he expects to operate pneumatic tubes for the transportation of grain. The theory is to carry the grain in suspension through the centre of the pipe, the compressed air forming a cushion around the outside It is understood that the experiment has been made for a distance of five hundred feet with perfect success. The next test will be a full mile. So says a correspondent of the New York Post

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

An Old Lady Burned to Death.

[illegible], March 10. Mrs. Cynthia W. [illegible], a widow eighty-six years of age, living alone in a small house on the Ban[illegible] road two miles from here, was burned to death in her house early this morning. It is thought that she lighted a kerosene [illegible] and started for some portion of her [illegible] her feeble footsteps giving way, the lamp was overturned and the oil ig[nited].

The Knox & Lincoln Railroad.

[illegible], March 10. A large meeting [illegible] this evening to consider the sub[ject of lea]sing the Knox & Lincoln Rail[road to] the Maine Central, voted it expe[dient to call] the town meeting to be [held to]morrow to vote on the matter for [illegible], in order to consider the second [proposition] submitted by the Maine Cen[tral to p]urchase the road for a sum based [on the in]terest of the amount offered for [illegible], which would be $1,200,000 in 5 [per cent] bonds of the Maine Central, se[cured by] a mortgage on the K. & L. Road. [The meet]ing to be held to-morrow will be [adjourned] to the 25th.

FORTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS--First Session

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 10. At the hour [of meet]ing there were not more than [illegible] Senators present. Only a bare [quorum] was obtained. During the early [part of the] morning hour the Union sup[ply bill] [illegible] response of the Secretary of [War to the] resolution calling for informa[tion as] to additional works necessary at [the falls] of the Ohio river, to complete im[provem]ents thereof in a manner to serve [the inte]rests of the commerce of that river.

Mr. Vest offered a resolution directing [the Se]cretary of War to use the steamers [and other] vessels belong to or now em[ployed] by the Government on the Missis[sippi an]d tributaries in the transportation [and dist]ribution of rations and supplies [furn]ished to the sufferers by the recent [overf]low, and providing for the necessary [expe]nses thereof; passed.

Mr. Dawes reported back the fortifica[tion] appropriation bill without amend[ment].

[Bills] were introduced and referred by Mr. [illegible] providing for the purchase of Forbs [histori]cal art collection, appropriating [illegible] therefor; by Mr. Brown appropriat[ing $] [illegible] for the improvement of the [harbor] of Savannah.

[The] bill for a commission on the alco[holic li]quor traffic, which again came up [on the] calendar, was discussed upon the [pendin]g amendments.

M[r. H]oar argued against the power of Congress under the Constitution to regu[late or] interfere with the liquor traffic in [the St]ates.

Mr. Sherman replied that the bill did not [propo]se interference with license or sale in [the St]ates but merely instituted an inquiry as [to the] best mode to deal with the evils [grow]ing out of the traffic.

[On m]otion of Mr. Plumber the number [of the] commission was fixed at seven.

[On m]otion of Mr. Frye the time within [which] the commission shall report was [fixed at] eighteen months.

[The bill] was then passed—31 to 14.

[The Sen]ate then took up the tariff com[mission] bill, but the bill was informally [laid aside] [illegible] business for Mon[day]. [illegible] after an Executive session the [Senate adj]ourned till Monday.

House.

Mr. Reed of Maine, asked that the Ge[neva] [illegible] bill be made the special order [for the fi]rst Tuesday in March. Mr. [illegible] of New York objected. Mr. [illegible] of Massachusetts, presented reso[lutions] of the Land League and Irish [illegible] of Massachusetts, ask[ing Con]gress to take steps for the protec[tion of] American citizens abroad; referred.

[Mr.] [illegible], of Iowa, presented a [re]port of the Committee on Elec[tions in the] case of M. D. Ball; ordered [printed]. The report declares Ball entitled [to a seat] in the 47th Congress as a delegate [from] Alaska.

[The] Speaker laid before the House four [mem]orials from the citizens of Utah Terri[tory], one from 10,966 young ladies, one [fr]om 10,015 young men, one from 15,040 [wo]men and one from 12,378 men for [the] suspension of further action on all bills re[lating] to Utah and for the appointment of [a] commission of [illegible] and [illegible] [men] and women to inquire into and [report] upon the state of affairs in that [Ter]ritory.

[Mr.] [illegible], of New York, suggested [illegible] that the names of the signers be read, [but the] memorials were ordered printed and [referred].

[A] resolution was passed making an [appro]priation of $10,000 to be immediately [avail]able the Light House Board [illegible] ordinary expenses consequent [on the] Mississippi.

[A] resolution was adopted re[questing the] President to bring to the at[tention of] the Government of Nicaragua [the necessit]y of arranging by a convention [for the fin]al settlement of all unadjusted [claims of] citizens of the United States [against the] Government of Nicaragua.

[The] House went into a Committee [of the W]hole, Mr. Davis, of Illinois, in the [chair, on the] private calendar.

[The first bi]ll on the calendar was for the [relief of] P. Chouteau, and gave rise [to a dis]cussion, pending which the [committee] rose informally and the House [passed] the joint resolution author[izing the] Secretary of War to use the Gov[ernment] vessels for transportation and [distributi]on of rations furnished by the [Government to] the sufferers by the Mis[sissippi] overflow. The Committee then [resumed] its session.

[At] [illegible] the Committee rose and the [House] passed a number of private bills. [The] Speaker laid before the House the fol[lowing] messages from the President and [they] were referred: Transmitting a report [from the] Secretary of State touching the [imprison]ment in Mexico of Thomas Shields [and] other American citizens; the re[port say]s that the resolution of the House [calling] for information relative thereto was [transm]itted to Minister Morgan, who [illegible] was [inform]ed by Shield took no steps to procure [his rel]ease, and the following telegram was [received] in reply:

"The statement of Shields with regard [to] [illegible] is false. Learning they were arrest[ed I] brought the matter to the notice of [the S]ecretary of State for Foreign Affairs. [They] were released and were again re-ar[rested a] few days since for drunkenness [and] disorderly conduct; particulars by [mail.]"

Transmitting a report of the Secretary [of State] relative to removals, appointments [and pr]omotions in the Consular service [since] March 4th, 1877. The House then [took] a recess till 7.30, the evening session [to be] for consideration of pension bills [only].

GARFIELD AND ROSECRANS.

Attempting to Discredit the Dead President by Publishing Personal Letters.

NEW YORK, March 10. The Herald [publishes] a letter said to be a copy of an orig[inal] which is in the hands of parties of the [highest] respectability, from Gen. Garfield [to] Gen. Rosecrans, dated House of Repre[sent]atives, Washington, July 18th, 1880, in which Garfield says that any charge to the effect that he was in any sense hostile to Rosecrans or unfaithful to friends of his, had not a particle of truth in it. Garfield says, "On my way from your army to Washington, I met Mr. Stanton at Louis[v]ille, and when he denounced you in vig[or]ous language, I resisted and defended you against his assault. I did the same, as you remember, in the House of Repre[sentatives] very soon after I entered that body. It's true that I was occasionally a correspondent of the Secretary. Several times your Chief of Staff had written in regard to the progress of the war and asked my opinion on various questions connected with it, but I absolutely challenge all the rascals in the world to publish any such letters written by me; they are welcome to all they can make out of them. With kindest regards I am as ever your friend.

CHILI-PERUVIAN CORRESPONDENCE.

CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION.

WASHINGTON, March 10. The Committee on Foreign Affairs, who are charged with the investigation of the Chili-Peruvian correspondence, with a view of fixing the responsibility for the abstraction of certain State papers from the files of the State Department, resumed the examination of witnesses this afternoon.

Francis O. St. Clair, chief of the Consular Bureau, in the State Department, was questioned by the chairman in regard to the disposition of the letters and correspondence coming through the mails. The witness has charge of all letters from consuls and all letters addressed to consuls, and would recognize the right of the chief clerk of the Secretary to withdraw all or any papers from his custody, but no other persons. The witness remembered indexing one letter from Shipherd in May, 1881.

Sometime after the witness was made Chief of Bureau, probably about the 10th of August, a call was made for certain letters of the Shipherd correspondence. I made search for a certain letter which had been indexed in my hand writing, but I could not find it and asked Walker Blaine if the Secretary had it. He said he did not know but would see if it was at his house. After this I did not hear any more about it. The witness was under the impression that either Mr. Trescott, or Secretary Blaine, called for the letters and up to the time when it was found they were lost he had no recollection of their being called for by any one else.

The witness remembered having seen several of these letters upon his desk long after these date, but did not know who might have had them in the meantime. The witness continued: In August the discovery was made that several of these letters were missing. I said I would try to find the one I had indexed, but would not be responsible for those I had not indexed, I failed to find any of them. I never said anything to the Secretary on the subject and never heard anything further from Mr Walker Blaine.

Mr. Trescott frequently called for papers and we used to let him have them without an order from the Secretary. I understood he (Trescott) was in the employ of the Department as counsel. No original papers are permitted to be taken from the Department. Mr Trescott was investigating the Chili-Peruvian matter, and my impression is he called for them. No other persons than those known to be in the employ of the Department are allowed in the Index Department. The witness said it is my impression Mr. Trescott was assigned the duty of preparing drafts of letters on the Chili-Peruvian affair. He had a room in the Department, but I don't know of my own knowledge that he held any official position in the Department.

He appeared to act in confidential relation with the Secretary. I presumed the letters were found at that time in August, and it is my impression they will be found now at Mr. Trescott's house in this city, as I don't believe they have been abstracted from the Department to be suppressed or destroyed. It is not an unusual thing for papers to be lost for months and subsequently found in the Department. In other words they are misplaced for the time being. It is expected Shepherd will testify before the Committee to-morrow.

A SERIOUS STRIKE.

Troops in Readiness to Act.

OMAHA, March 10. The situation of the strike is growing more serious hourly. The Adjutant General arrived this evening to confer about bringing troops to protect the non-union laborers when they resume work, and it is certain a number of companies of regulars and militia are ready to enter the city at brief notice. The greatest fear arises from the fact that a number of strikers are indulging in liquor and may commit violence while under its influence.

Three hundred smelters quit without demanding higher wages and about a score of men from the distillery and packing houses. The majority of the men informed their employers that they left under the coercion of the Labor Union, and not of their own accord, and were anxious to return as soon as the state of affairs would permit. At the strikers' meeting this evening, several speeches urging the men to act upon what was claimed was right without regard to the military, were made.

General News.

The Jeannette.

WASHINGTON, March 10. Secretary Hunt, this morning, received the following cable despatch from James Gordon Bennett, at Paris:

"The New York Herald correspondent is to leave Irkutsk at once for the Lena's mouth, and telegraphs that it would be of the greatest advantage in following up the search of Noros, one of Lieut. Danenhower's crew, could be ordered to accompany him. He says Harber will get there too late to reach Lena Delta on sleds. Will you kindly send the necessary permission for Noros?"

The request has been complied with.

The Star Route Cases.

Samuel G. Cabell, indicted for conspiracy and perjury in connection with Star Route frauds, this morning furnished bail in $5000. In the case of Jno. R. Miner, indicted for conspiracy and perjury in the same connection, the defendant was unable to furnish bail, and his counsel, Mr. Hine, with the permission of the Court, then filed certified check for the amount of bail payable on certain conditions; to this the Court assented. The bail of M. C. Rerdell was fixed at $5000; he did not appear to-day. The bail of S. W. Dorsey is fixed at $10,000 and J. W. Pimphrey was accepted at his bondsman. Mr. Ingersoll said that John W. Dorsey was on his way from New Mexico to furnish his bail in $10,000. N. W. Fitzgerald was accepted as bondsman in $20,000 for the bail of Thomas J. Brady.

THE MILITARY RIFLE MATCH.

PROGRAMME FOR SELECTING A TEAM—FOUR COMPETITIONS AT CREEDMOOR.

The Board of Directors of the National Rifle Association met in New York Tuesday evening. Gen. Edward L. Molineux presided, and besides the Directors, there were present Gen. John B. Woodward, and ex-Judge N. P. Stanton, who were identified with the early history of the association. A letter was received from Gen. Alexander Shaler, commanding the First Division, in which he expressed his sympathy with the proposed international military rifle match, and promised his hearty support to the enterprise. A communication from the Long Island Railroad Company stated that the company did not feel justified in incurring the expense of running special trains to Creedmoor this year, in view of its loss on that class of traffic during the past four years, particularly as the Creedmoor branch of the railroad required repairs to the extent of $6,000. The officers were, however, willing to make terms for transportation to the Queen's station. The committee appointed to prepare a programme for the selection of the American team to represent the National Guard of the United States in the international military rifle match at Creedmoor next September, presented a report which was adopted. It provides that a committee of five shall be appointed by the Board of Directors to carry out the programme. Each State or Territory, including the District of Columbia, desiring representation on the team shall establish competitions at such place, or places, as military authorities may prescribe for competitors to represent it. The competitions are to be open only to members of its uniformed Militia who have been members since September last. Each competition is to consist of seven shots by each competitor at each of the ranges of 200, 500, and 600 yards in the first stage, and 800, 900, and 1,000 yards in the second stage. Any military breech-loading rifle may be used. The position in shooting will be standing at 200 yards prone at 500 and 600 yards, and any at the other ranges. No sighting-shots are to be allowed, and no cleaning is to be permitted between the ranges. Competitors in these contests who make at least 85 in the first and 67 in second stages will be deemed qualified to enter the regular competitions at Creedmoor. The latter competitions will take place on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Aug 15, 16, 17, and 18. At their conclusion 14 competitors shall be selected in the order of their aggregate scores made in the four competitions, beginning with the highest in the list of competitors.

The committee is empowered to select two additional men who may not have shot in all the competitions. These 16 men with the committee are to select a Captain. The latter may appoint an Adjutant to assist him. The Captain shall have the management of the team and shall prescribe the rules for its government and practice, including the decision as to the final selection of the 12 men who shall constitute the team. Each person entering the final competitions at Creedmoor will be required to present a certificate from the Adjutant-General of his State stating that he has been a member of the National Guard since Sept. 1, 1881, and is a proper person to represent his State. He shall also sign an agreement to conform to the conditions prescribed for the selection of the team. Persons authorized to participate in the final competitions for the selection of the team shall be allowed the free use of the range at Creedmoor for practice two weeks previous to the competitions. The association will provide quarters and subsistence on the range for the competitors in the four final competitions, and for the team and reserves after their selection. A competitor may be removed by a two-thirds vote of the Captain, team, and the committee. Notice is to be given to the Secretary of the National Rifle Association on or before Aug. 1 by such States as propose to be represented in the competitions. Where no competition is held by any particular State, any persons in such State who shall make the requisite scores and shall have them certified by officers of the National Guard of that State, will be permitted to enter the final competitions at Creedmoor.

The Secretary was directed to issue circulars to the several rifle associations, clubs, and commanding officers of the National Guard in the several States, stating the conditions as adopted. Col. Scott suggested that a suitable prize should be offered for the purpose of stimulating the match and that an appeal should be made to the public for funds with which to conduct the match. Gen. Wingate said a very handsome trophy should be given, such as a cup, with a medal for each member of the winning team. On motion of Col. Cowperthwait, the matter was referred to the Treasurer and the Prize Committee.

SWAN HEARD FROM AGAIN. A detective of the United States postal department recently went to Omaha, Nebraska, where T. B. Swan, of corn-sheller fame, was stationed at last accounts. The detective called at the house where the great reformer had been boarding, and got a look at Swan's room, but did not find the statesman himself. The room contained a lot of cheap jewelry and French clocks made in Connecticut. It seems that Swan has been doing a little practical peddling in the intervals of his missionary and reform work. Lewiston Journal.

Morrill, Misses Hutle Marden and Vesta Welch for their commendable management.

MRS. WOOLSON'S LECTURES.

Close of the Delightful Course in Unity Hall.

The sixth of the delightful course of lectures by Mrs. Abba Goold Woolson in Unity Hall was largely attended yesterday afternoon and proved one of the most interesting of the series. Her subject was "Modern Historians, Essayists and Novelists," and was treated with the rare power of analysis and fascinating portraiture which invest Mrs. Woolson's lectures with such peculiar charm. This lecture completed the regular course, which has been attended with ever-increasing interest, and in response to the earnest requests of those who have so much enjoyed the afternoon course, she has consented to deliver one additional lecture at Unity Hall this evening on "George Eliot and Charlotte Bronte."

The presence of Mrs. Woolson in our city for the several weeks past has been a source of much pleasure in social circles aside from the entertainment and instruction she has furnished upon the lecture stand. Among other appreciative hospitalities extended to the accomplished lady, the close of her present lecture course was signalized by an elegant private reception given in her honor last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Arad Thompson, assisted by their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson, at their residence on Broadway. Some fifty or sixty of the prominent ladies and gentlemen of the city were present and the occasion proved a very happy social tribute to the lady who has contributed so much to the intellectual enjoyment of others.

CITIZENS' CAUCUS.

A Small Gathering, but a Large Vote—Charles P. Brown Unanimously Nominated for Mayor—The Nominee Surprised at the Honor but Ready with a Speech in Manuscript.

Pursuant to a call for "the voters of Bangor, irrespective of party, who are opposed to the present extravagant manner in which our municipal affairs are being conducted and who favor a more just and economical administration of those affairs" to assemble in "Citizens' Caucus" to put in nomination a candidate for Mayor, there was quite a gathering at City Hall at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The caucus was called to order by Joseph F. Snow, Esq., who addressed the meeting at some length and referred to what the citizens or taxpayers had accomplished a few years ago, and thought the same could be done again.

Hon. John B. Foster was called to the chair and made reference to the "citizens" movement, but occupied the occasion chiefly by discussing the railroad extension, and expressed himself strongly opposed to the city becoming any more involved in railroad indebtedness, and thought the matter should rest for the present as it is. If the claim of the second mortgage bondholders was legal and equitable he favored paying it.

D. F. Kelliher, Esq., was then chosen Secretary of the caucus.

Dr. Jordan then rose and moved that a committee be appointed to receive, sort and count votes for a candidate for Mayor and Chairman Foster selected the following:

Ward 1, James Hathorn; Ward 2, Vincent Willard; Ward 3, Levi B. Patten; Ward 4, John F. Robinson; Ward 5, Clement I. Wyer; Ward 6, John Kane and Ward 7, H. J. Banton.

Balloting then commenced and the committee after attending to their duty reported as follows:

Whole number of votes cast,	363
Necessary for a choice,	182
Charles P. Brown had	363

and was declared the nominee of the caucus.

The announcement of the result caused a broad grin to appear on the faces of those present. At the time of the balloting there were scarcely more than one hundred occupying seats in the body of the hall and only a few in the rear portion participated in the voting and accordingly the large number of ballots which the committee reported cast for Mr. Brown could hardly fail to create a smile. In the desire of the active managers to give the impression that the caucus was a large and representative one the counting committee had evidently put so a heavy strain on the ballot-box that they overshot their mark and the reported vote was so much out of proportion to what it should have been that the absurdity of the thing was at once apparent to every one. A committee which embraced such bright and shining lights of Reform as Dr. Jordan and John F. Robinson would naturally not wish to be hampered by so trifling a matter as one or two hundred votes, more or less.

A committee was appointed to notify Mr. Brown of his nomination, and in a few minutes the candidate for the Mayoralty put in his appearance at City Hall and his portly figure soon graced the stage. The speaker then proceeded to address the meeting:

Mr. Chairman and fellow-citizens, here assembled in a citizens' caucus. I have been waited upon by your committee and informed that you have selected me as your candidate to be supported by you at the polls on Monday next, for Mayor of the City of Bangor. I was busy with a client when your committee waited upon me and their announcement took me completely by surprise. I had no idea I was to have anything to do with this caucus. At first I was inclined to refuse, but after a moment's consideration and consultation with a few tried and trusted friends I have decided to accept the post you have assigned to me, and I tender you singly and collectively my sincere, kindest and heartfelt thanks. I accept the post assigned me. (At this point the candidate pulled from his pocket a written manuscript from which he read a carefully prepared speech.) The speaker proceeded to say if your action here shall be ratified at the polls —which I regard as only among the possibilities—I shall endeavor to discharge its duties for the best interests of the whole city. I have long been of the opinion that, in the management of our municipal affairs, party politics should have a secondary place. In 1878, our city affairs were managed, and our city officers were elected irrespective of party politics, and we were gainers. Our city business was prudently and judiciously managed, all legal obligations met and paid, the taxes for that year greatly reduced, and hope and courage was given to our people. I hope to see this rule again adopted. We have a population of great energy and enterprise. Give our men a chance and they will "go ahead" and overcome all obstacles, but with all this energy and pluck, we find our city falling behind in population and in property, as shown by the census, while all other cities in our land are making rapid strides onward. Why is this? Mainly, I think, to our large debt and high rate of taxation, thus preventing capital coming into the city and inducing capital to leave the city. Fellow citizens, let it be our study and effort to remedy this, judiciously and as soon as may be. I again thank you for your kindness.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK.

Removal of this Well-known Institution to New and Handsome Quarters.

The Second National Bank opened yesterday in their new and commodious quarters. Thursday evening the great steel chest, weighing fully three tons, was removed from the vault in the room which has been so long occupied by the Bank, up one flight in the Wheelwright & Clark block, and placed in the spacious vault recently constructed in the new quarters which have been selected on the ground floor on West Market Square.

During yesterday President Ayer and Cashier Dennett received visits from many friends who extended hearty congratulations at the handsome rooms which the Bank now occupies. The new banking establishment has been described by us from time to time as progress has been made. The great vault has been constructed in a most elaborate manner and cannot fail to be proof against burglars or fire. The front was made by the Diebold Safe and Lock Company and the vault is one of the most secure places which can be conceived. The banking office is large, well lighted and cheerful. The counters are of mahogany and cherry and are surmounted by bronzed iron lattice work. In the rear is the private office of the President, and this has been fitted up pleasantly. The floor is covered with a handsome carpet, and a large open fireplace, with its brass andirons, adds to the cheerfulness of the surroundings.

The Second National Bank is one of our best known financial institutions. Nathan C. Ayer, Esq., is President and the Board of Directors embrace many of our leading business men. Mr. William S. Dennett, the Cashier, has filled the position since the organization of the Bank in March, 1864. Mr. Dennett is a veteran cashier and is surpassed in the term of active service by only one Maine cashier, Mr. Gould of the Traders' Bank in Portland. Mr. Dennett in 1844 became Cashier of the Bank of Bangor which finally was merged into the Veazie Bank. In 1851 the State of Maine Bank was organized and Mr. Dennett assumed the position of Cashier which he held until 1864 when the Bank wound up its affairs. The Second National is an outgrowth of the State of Maine Bank and Mr. Dennett has been Cashier since its organization to the present time. He has now been actively employed as bank cashier for 38 years.

OBITUARY.

The Late J. R. Holt, Esq.

In our issue of yesterday brief announcement was made of the decease of Mr. Jonathan R. Holt, cashier of the Merchants' National Bank. It is but fitting now that we should make some additional reference to the departed.

Mr. Holt was born in Bangor and at the time of his decease was 63 years and 9 months of age. His younger days were passed in the town of Hampden. He was twice married, his first wife a Miss Hopkins, of Hampden, bearing him no children. The second wife was the widow of the late Mr. Frederick Drew and she survives him, and also one child.

The deceased during his life was engaged in several kinds of business. He at one time kept a store in Hampden and subsequently ran a paper mill in the same town, and for a time was in business in Portland. He was also engaged for a time in the manufacture of stoves on Harlow street, under the firm name of Hinckley & Holt. About ten years ago he became associated with the Merchants' National Bank in the capacity of assistant cashier and the position was held by him until the resignation of the late Mr. Stickney, when he assumed the cashiership and held the same up to the time of his last sickness.

On Saturday, January 14th, Mr. Holt left the Bank for the last time. He was immediately confined to his house and his disease soon assumed such a form that the gravest results were anticipated. His condition gradually grew more unfavorable and he steadily sank. During the early portion of the sickness his suffering was very intense, but for several days prior to his demise he was unconscious and he died at last easily. The disease which occasioned his death exhibited itself as gangrene in the foot.

Mr. Holt was well known and highly respected in this community. In the family circle he will be especially missed. He was a member of the City Council and is the second one of that body who has died during the present municipal year. The funeral will occur at his late residence on Grove street at 2:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Friends are invited to the funeral. The burial will be private.

The B. & P. Railroad Mortgages.

BANGOR, March 10, 1882.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier:

I am asked to explain what is meant by the phrases "Waive the city's mortgage," "Subordinate the city's mortgage," which appear so frequently in the communications about the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad?

I think the meaning of such phrases is not understood.

Answer.—They mean that, by an agreement of the city of Bangor with the B. & P. Co. the company may issue, from time to time and sell its bonds, to an amount not exceeding $300,000, to build and complete the extension of the road to Moosehead Lake; and for the payment of the interest may, each year, take out of the net earnings of the road a sum sufficient for that purpose; and may set aside each year, out of the net earnings, a small sum for the purpose of paying the bonds when they become due, say in twenty or thirty years as may be thought best; and in order that the persons who may purchase the bonds will know that their investment is safe, and thus invest their money at the lowest rate of interest, the city allows the Railroad Company to secure those bonds by a first mortgage on the road.

When the bonds are paid, then the city will not only own the present road which it owns now, but will also own the new extension to the Lake, about 78 miles in all.

It will be seen that the only object of permitting the road to give a mortgage to secure the $300,000 of bonds, is to give them a character in the market, and such bonds would be as perfect an investment, and would float at as low rate of interest, as any bond on the market.

Now, without the mortgage, the same bonds could not be sold for less than from one to two per cent. higher rate of interest than with the mortgage, if they would sell at all.

The only real difference between the Blake or Syndicate plan and the plan to be voted upon Monday is as follows:

The Blake plan requires no mortgage and therefore a high rate of interest.

The plan to be voted upon requires a mortgage and a low rate of interest.

By the Blake plan it would take from $3000 to $6000 more each year to pay the interest on the bonds than by the plan to be voted upon.

Will some one inform the citizens why Bangor should lose every year out of its treasury $3000 or $6000 to be paid to bondholders, when by a mortgage of the road to be made by the company it can be saved?

AMONG THE YACHTSMEN

PREPARATIONS FOR A LIVELY AND EXCITING SEASON

(From the N. Y. Times.)

The coming yachting season promises to be the most active and exciting that has been enjoyed in many years. Many new yachts, both sloops and schooners, now building will be added to the fleets of the various clubs, and some famous boats that have long been out of commission are to be overhauled and put in racing trim. The chief of these latter is the sloop Arrow, now owned by Mr Winans, of the New York Yacht Club, which at one time had the reputation of being the fastest sloop afloat. It has been hinted that she is to be put in racing order with the special purpose in view of beating the Gracie, which is now generally conceded to be the swiftest sloop on New York Harbor, if not the fastest afloat, and some discussion has arisen in yachting circles as to whether she can do it. In her favor it is contended that little, if any, improvement in yacht building has been made since the Arrow was, as she beat the Gracie before, she can do it again. On the other hand, however, it is argued, first, that there has been improvement in yacht building as well as in yacht rigging, and second, that the Gracie, having been entirely rebuilt in the interim is no more like the Gracie that was beaten by the Arrow than the Arrow is like the Gracie. Counting that fine sloop, it may be said that after undergoing a thorough overhauling during the past Winter, she again is afloat and now lying in the Atlantic Yacht Club's dock, near Bay Ridge. Her centreboard has been lengthened and by an addition of five feet, and her frame considerably strengthened. A new mast has been put into her with a larger mainboard, designed to enable her to carry a larger topsail. Her sail will also be altered by the addition of one cloth in the leach to correspond with the change in her centreboard. The Julia, another of the famous pacing sloops of past days, has undergone a third charge and into a schooner was purchased last fall by Mr. E. Ward M. Brown, recently elected Commodore of the New Haven Club and is now being again converted into a sloop. Much interest is felt among yacht men as to how she will race with the Gracie and it is pretty well understood that several private matches have been arranged between the owners of the two yachts. The Mischief is lying at her Winter quarters at Staten Island.

Noteworthy changes have been made in her. Mr. J. R. Busk, her owner, is going around the world, during the coming Summer, and it is generally understood that she will be sold if Mr. Busk's price is obtained. Mr. Busk, it is said, desires to build a schooner yacht. The Julia, also, will be put in first class trim with a view to participating in all the principal events. The Fanny has been sold out of the New York Yacht Club fleet, and will be taken to Boston.

After the Madge's victories last Fall there seemed to be a danger that the cutter mania would sweep everything before it, but during the Winter a marked reaction has taken place. At the present time cutters appear to be in less favor than ever in support of this statement it can be mentioned that the Alarm has been sold as a sloop and that the Madge's owner has now yachts building only one is a cutter. It seems to be definitely settled now that none of the large English cutters will cross the Atlantic during the coming season to try results with the fast American sloops. It is stated recently by an English gentleman owner and with English yachting affairs, in conversation with a prominent New York yachtsman, that the owners of the large cutters are not willing to subject them to the perils of a transatlantic voyage and that are too bulky to be brought over as freight on the deck of an ocean steamship. Their size, it is not likely that any of them will come.

The yachting season will open as usual with the Decoration Day regatta of the Mystic Yacht Club. This is an informal race with a flying start, and without time taking and is entered into by many yachtsmen mainly with a view to testing the condition of their yachts. Among the matches to take place early in the season, and one on which a good deal of interest centres, is the reason that it will probably settle the vexed question of the comparative speeding qualities of cutters and beam yachts, is a race that has been arranged between the Madge and the Schemer. The Schemer is to be kept in the same condition as to ballast as she was during the races of last Fall, but is to have the benefit of a better rating. Another event of interest will be a match between Commodore Cozzens's cutter Oriva and Dr. Davison's sloop both of the Seawanhaka Yacht Club. The Valkyr, by the way, is not strictly a cutter but a combination of the two types. The Oriva did not prove very satisfactory last season, as far as speed is concerned but she may have been due to the fact that she was a new boat and her owner had not yet had time enough to find out her requirements. Most of the yachts of the sloop rig who are at their respective anchorages or at neighboring shipyards, but a few schooners are off on cruises. The schooner Wanderer of the New York Yacht Club with her owner Mr. E. D. Morgan Jr. on board, sailed about two weeks ago for a cruise along the Bermudas Islands. Before she left her bold form and rig was referred. The schooner Norseman, owned by Mr. Cozden Goelet, has also been put in cruising trim and she will sail for southern waters early in June. Her exact destination has not yet been made public. Mr. Goelet has given two cups—one of $1,000 value, for schooners and another of $500 value for sloops, to be sailed for by the yachts of the New York Yacht Club over the Newport course during the annual cruise of that club's squadron next Summer. Mr. William A. Gaskoner Ashbacadress is at Jacksonville Fla. where she has been for several years, but it is said that she will return to New York in the coming Summer and probably take part in some of the New York Yacht Club regattas.

Many changes have occurred in the ownership of yachts during the Fall and Winter and the principal are noted below. Ex Commodore Stewart of the Seawanhaka Yacht Club who last season had the schooner yacht Dreadnought under charter purchased the Nokomis in the Fall and has had her put in first class order. The Nokomis was once owned by the Rev George H. Hepworth, and it was on her that he made the trip to the coast of Labrador that became the subject of his book "Starboard and Port." Mr. C. J. Osborn, of the New York Yacht Club, has sold his steam yacht Corsair to Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, of the same club for $50,000. It was rumored recently that the steam yacht Emu had also been sold, but this has since been contradicted. Col. Josiah Porter has sold the sloop Bagatelle to Mr. Henry C. Ward of the Atlantic Yacht Club and is having a new sloop 85 feet over all built for him. The new sloop is not intended for racing, it is said and will not be enlisted in any club. Mr. E. D. Morgan, Jr., has sold the cutter Muriel to Mr. Paul Rodgers and a new catamaran for Mr. Fred Hughes, who has already owned three of these phantom crafts.

SEED SOWING FOR AMATEURS

The propagation of plants by seed sowing would be more generally undertaken by amateurs did they understand how easily they may secure excellent crops. The process is so simple that this delightful occupation may be pursued by a child. As this is the proper time for propagating hardy plants, the young folks should be busy with their seed boxes, and when Spring is here they will have a collection of abutilons, cyclamens, cineraria, carnations, dahlias, geraniums, heliotrope, lobelias, petunias, primulas, palms of various kinds, panales, smilax, verbenas, wall flowers, stocks, etc., with which to fill the beds of the Summer garden. The pleasure of watching the shoots prick through the soil, and of potting the wee plants is great. It is a more healthful occupation for the girls than working worsted, and there is a pride and delight in seeing blossoms burst on the plant one has nursed since its first leaf unrolled that can ever be experienced with those purchased from the markets or florist.

It is the verdict of leading horticulturists that all plants that can be propagated by seeds should be so grown in preference to propagation by cuttings, layers or any other manner. The dates at which the different kinds of seeds may be sown are of the utmost importance, and must be governed by the section of the country and the temperature of the proposed sowing. The place of sowing may be in window boxes or the greenhouse. The latter is preferable, of course, as there is there a greater command of heat and condition for observing seeds. To such as have not the convenience of a greenhouse, seeds may be sown in shallow boxes, which we shall describe, and placed in a window of a south or east room, where the thermometer does not average less than seventy degrees. Success will be more complete if panes of glass are placed over the seeds, resting on the edge of the box an inch or so from the soil. This prevents evaporation and renders watering less necessary.

The best seed boxes are but one inch in depth. They may be made from an ordinary soap box, which will make four or five, with the bottom boards so put on as to prevent the free escape of moisture though not sufficiently wide apart as that seed to wash through. Fill these boxes with a rich sandy loam which must be sifted by rubbing through a sieve as fine as mosquito netting by which process the loam particles are rendered very small. The soil is then to be made quite moist, carefully levelled and smoothed tree from all inequalities. The seed is thickly sown, and pressed down into the soil by a smooth board. No covering is used, except pulverized loam or sphagnum, which should be laid on about a sixteenth part of an inch deep. The value of this covering over one ordinary soil is that it is light and of a spongy character to fit on moisture. These seed boxes should be placed in the open sunlight, in the windows of the dwelling room, or in the greenhouse in a temperature of 60° at night to 70° in the daytime, and never shaded. A proper degree of moisture is supplied—a light sprinkling of water once a week—germination is certain. It is really wonde ful to observe with what precision seed sown under the circumstances of new treatment will germinate and grow.

After the plants have strained what is known as the "shell leaf" they should be lifted off the seed box and replanted in boxes of rather richer soil, the seedlings of half an inch apart. Let them remain in these boxes from three to six weeks according to nature of variety when they have become sufficiently grown to be put in two inch pots, and from these can be grown on to any size. The time to shift a plant from a smaller to a larger pot is known by the roots beginning to show around the outer surface of the ball. It is not necessary to shift when the first roots stretch the side of the pot. Often curl well around the ball but do not permit them to remain long enough to become woody. They should appear white, soft and succulent. A tap on the edge of the pot is sufficient to turn out the ball of earth. In repotting soft hydrus or cocoanut fibre is the best. The plant should be placed in the middle of the pot, the ball placed in the centre and the soil packed firmly in the space.—F. A. Benson in the Cultivator.
